Invitation

This year, the Symposium on Agriculture is celebrating its 60th Croatian and 20th International Anniversary.

Join us for a spectacular jubilee event organized by the Faculty of Agrobiotechnical Sciences Osijek, Josip Juraj Strossmayer University of Osijek, and the Faculty of Agriculture University of Zagreb, in collaboration with numerous esteemed co-organizers.

Our primary goal is to showcase the groundbreaking scientific, professional and educational work of Croatian and international experts, facilitating the seamless transfer of these achievements into agricultural production. This event also aims to foster enhanced collaboration among scientists from various universities, research institutions, universities alliances and industry specialists, including producers from Croatia, Europe, and beyond, all united by a shared passion for advancing science and agricultural practices.

We warmly invite you to participate through oral communications, poster presentations, showcasing your institution or company, or simply joining us as a valued participant.

Venue

The Symposium will be held at the Hotel Bluesun Elaphusa 4* in Bol, a charming town located on the southern coast of the island of Brač in Croatia, known for its stunning beaches, particularly the famous Zlatni Rat beach. The town is also rich in history, featuring ancient Roman ruins and a picturesque harbor lined with traditional stone houses.

Symposium sessions

The work of the Symposium will proceed in the following sessions:

1	Plant and Food Production
2	Animal Production and Food Quality
3	Agroecology and Regenerative Agriculture
4	Biodiversity Conservation
5	Agribusiness and Smart Agriculture
6	Youth and Education in Life Sciences
